

Decency Code

The primary purpose of Alcoholics Anonymous and its members is to be of help to anyone seeking a solution to their drinking problem. In achieving sobriety, our programme teaches us tolerance, understanding, support and respect for each other.

While most of us embrace these spiritual principles, there are a small minority of men and women who have sought self-gratification at the expense of other members or potential members.

In the spirit of Fellowship and sobriety, members are reminded that Alcoholics Anonymous does not condone any form of inappropriate behaviour that is likely to offend, hurt, confuse, or frighten others.
